ERYTHRONIUMS

ERYTHRONIUMS (Dog's Tooth Violets)

Words of praise fail to describe the charm of these delightful flowers. The delicate tints of Erythroniums make them one of the most charming plants in a garden. Groups should be planted in every shaded spot in the garden, preferably moderately moist and woody, where they will become permanently established. They flower in mid-February to April on the west coast, and early in April in the East.

GLOBE TULIPS (Calochortus)

This lovely variety of Calochortus is made up of flowers of many different colors, all exquisite in tints and perfection of form. They are natives of woodlands and like loose soil and light shade, yet most of them will do well in heavy soils, and are fine for naturalizing and rock garden use. Flowering time is late March to May, depending on locality.

Our Cover:

In no other part of the world except California can one see the famous Giant Redwoods (Sequoia sempervirens) pictured on our catalog cover. These magnificent trees have the wisdom of the ages, many having watched the pageant of history for over 2000 years. In the world famous Redwood Empire along the Pacific Coast in Northern California will be found trees that tower over 300 feet high. These are the world's tallest trees. We are indebted to the Southern Pacific for the very beautiful scene that makes up our cover.

California WILD FLOWERS

... to bring a touch of the west to your garden

California is unrivaled for the beauty of its wild flowers, but not many people realize that many of these flowers are perfectly hardy and can be grown successfully almost anywhere. You need have no fear of success with them, for the hardiness of the varieties we list have been well proven in even the coldest parts of this country.

BUTTERFLY TULIPS

MARIPOSA or BUTTERFLY TULIP (Calochortus)

A native flower of unusual grace, charm and loveliness. Named by the early Spanish explorers "Mariposa", which means Butterfly, because the spots and markings resemble those on a butterfly's wing. The cup-shaped flowers are 4 to 6 inches across when fully open, marked with eyes and dots and penciling in rich colors. Plant in sun or partial shade. They flower during May and June, according to location.

Anemones

Are equally as colorful in the garden as are the Ranunculus and are especially attractive when planted in beds or in clumps in shrub borders, flower gardens, etc. Their poppy-like flowers make fine flower arrangements and their long stems make them ideal cut flowers. Planting season is the same as for Ranunculus. We offer two strains:

MONARCH DE CAEN, Mixed

Tall growing strain with large saucer-shaped flowers. Very distinct flowers, some doubles.

ST. BRIGID, Mixed

Large, sturdy flowers on strong stems. Mostly double and semi-double flowers.

ANEMONES DE CAEN

LAGO GIANT FLOWERING Ranunculus

One of the showiest spring flowering bulbs. A single bulb will often produce dozens of blooms, and the bulbs get larger each year. The colors range from reds, yellows, pinks, gold to white, and our famous strain consists almost entirely of Giant Camellia Type Double flowers, with some semi-doubles. Ranunculus can be planted from September to January in mild climates, but our customers in the colder climates should order bulbs for delivery in the fall and keep them stored in a dry place, such as the cellar, until planting conditions are favorable, along in April or May.

DAFFODILS for Naturalizing

Daffodils planted in clusters in the foreground of shrubbery, or sown broadcast through woodlands, along hillsides, in meadows or lawns, and planted where they fall, give a most pleasing NATURAL effect. They will INCREASE in beauty and number without special care and become permanently established.

Our mixture is especially made up from named varieties especially adapted for naturalizing, and may be relied upon to give an abundant supply of flowers. Do not confuse this mixture with cheap mixtures made up of surplus bulbs only.

Incomparabilis

DAFFODILS

The Incomparabilis Group of Daffodils embrace a general class whose distinguishing characteristics are having a cup or crown not less than one-third but less than equal to the length of the perianth segments. There are two types in this group, the yellow shades with or without red colorings on the cup, and the bi-colors with white or whitish perianth, and self yellow, red-stained, or red cup. Some of our most beautiful daffodils come under this division.

DICK WELLBAND

One of the finest of the Incomparabilis class; a strong grower and a free bloomer. Perianth is pure white; the cup flame orange. Color does not fade but rather intensifies with age. Its great beauty lies in the startling contrast between petals and cup. Fine exhibition and forcing variety.

The Miniatures

SCARCE and RARE VARIETIES of Outstanding Merit

Many of these dainty little daffodils were found by the late Mr. Peter Barr on the mountains of Spain and Portugal, others on the sea-swept Glenan Isles off Brittany. Many are no longer to be found there, the sea having washed away all trace of the species. We are fortunate in having them in production now in this country, for these rare daffodils add much to the joy of the spring landscape.

TRIANDRUS ALBUS

The dainty little "Angel's tears" daffodils were originally brought in from Portugal. Fine for rockeries and for pot plants. They prefer shade, a gritty soil, and a well drained position.

3 bulbs for $1.25 12 for $4.50 25 for $8.00

TRIANDRUS CALATHINUS

One of the most beautiful of the miniatures. The flowers are produced in drooping clusters of two or three, are snowy white, and considerably larger than the Triandrus Albus, with long goblet-shaped crown prettily fluted. Thrives best in coarse soil mixed liberally with peat moss. THIS IS A VERY RARE BULB.

DUTCH IRIS, WEDGEWOOD

DUTCH IRIS

for a wealth of color and bloom —
for fine cut flowers —

Dutch Iris are fine additions to the garden and can be successfully grown in all parts of the country. In the colder states, we recommend winter protection.

WEDGEWOOD

This very early variety is undoubtedly the showiest of all. The standards are of pale wedgewood blue with falls of deeper blue, shading to steel blue. The flowers are held high on strong, rigid stems. Flowers are fine keepers when cut, and are very popular with florists for forcing indoors. This is a real prize winner wherever grown. Eastern customers should give this variety plenty of winter protection, or hold bulbs for spring planting. California customers and on the west coast or southern states can plant outdoors without protection.

GROWING DUTCH IRIS

Dutch Iris are easily grown and will do well in full sun or partial shade. Plant them 3 to 4 inches deep, and 6 to 8 inches apart, in any rich light soil that has good drainage. Plant with the point up. Bulbs do not have to be taken up in winter, but in cold climates a winter mulch is advisable.

Improved REGAL LILY LILY X CENTIFOLIUM

This magnificent lily is a hybrid that is the result of crossing L. regale and L. centifolium. The resultant hybrids were again crossed with L. centifolium and for five years during the flowering period the biggest and tallest were selected for seed. The result of this breeding has resulted in a super giant trumpet lily, flowering two weeks later than Regal and stronger and better. Plant some of these along with Regals and see the difference.

FORMOSANA LILY

GROWING LILIES

Lilies are easy to grow and do well almost anywhere. An ideal soil is one which is sufficiently porous to drain rapidly, but rich enough in humus to retain moisture for the plants during the summer. All Lilies are related to the wild flowers and do not take kindly to heavy fertilizing or cultivation. Plant Lilies at least four times the diameter of the bulb, below the surface of the soil. Most Lilies will grow very well if potted.

COTTAGE TULIPS

with their lily-like form

The Cottage Tulip group is unique because there is a greater variation in flower form in this group than in any other classification. Some blooms are very similar to the Darwins; others are egg-shaped; some lily-flowering with long, pointed, reflexed petals. The color range is excellent with all shades of blush, pink, salmon and rose, and brilliant shadings of carmine, cerise, crimson and yellow. Culture for Cottage Tulips is the same as for Darwins.

The New IDEAL DARWINS

We offer these new PEDIGREED VARIETIES, developed as a result of countless crosses between classes to develop new types. These new strains are stronger, more vigorous growers; colors are more striking and have greater sheen; the flowers have more strength and substance. These are the forerunners of what will be the trend in tulips in the future.

Try some of these NEW BLOOD TYPES in your garden now. It will be several years before they will be marketed in any quantity as stocks are small and most of them must be kept for production purposes.

It is made up of over 200 varieties of tulips that have been grown in the bulb farms for the past many years, and contains every color imaginable. This section of the bulb farm is one of the most beautiful in the entire farm when the ten acres devoted to this group are in full bloom, and when you plant the RAINBOW COLLECTION it will be just like taking a small piece of that acreage and putting it right in your own garden. Bulbs in this collection are 12 centimeter top size and will produce dandy flowers next spring.

SEED FROM THE NEW CROP
$1.00 per pkt. — 3 pkts. for $2.50

Most perennials are easily grown from seed which can be sown practically any time of the year, according to climatic conditions, or time of flowering desired. Under California conditions or in the southern states, sow from June to September for early spring flowers. In regions where winters are severe, summer sowing, from June to August, is recommended, so that the plants will become well established before the cold winter sets in. Otherwise the most practical time to sow is in the spring. However, spring planted perennials will not bloom that year, so summer planting is urged for bloom the following season.

CALIFORNIA GROWN flower seed represents the finest, for climatic conditions are best for the production of quality seed of high germination and trueness to name. California supplies most of the flower seed for the entire world. We are happy to offer you the best of the NEW CROP SEED for summer and early fall planting.

TALL BEARDED IRIS

Probably no greater advance in flower culture has been made in the past ten years than that made in the development of the Bearded Iris. The varieties offered today are larger and have greater substance; they have better color; they bloom over a longer period of time; they are free of pests and diseases common to many other flowers. You will find them perfectly hardy anywhere, and because they require so little care and attention, they offer a lot of real flower pleasure for very little investment, as they will multiply rapidly.

ARCTIC

A new white and gold iris of gigantic proportions in flower, stalk and foliage. Of perfect form with fluted but closed standards and broad falls that are as smooth as white enamel. There is an area of bright yellow throughout the center of the flower, but the iris is gleaming creamy white. Established plants will produce spikes four feet and over in height with as many as six open flowers at one time. Each $2.25.

SNOW FLURRY

An outstanding white. Standards are pure icy white, beautifully ruffled, and falls big, broad and pure white. They are waved and crimped at the edges, semi-faring. This variety is especially noted for the great number of flowers produced on each stalk, some of which tower to a height of four feet. A very early variety, long lasting. Each $5.00.

GRAND CANYON

An iris that contains an unusual blend of deep tones of plum and copper and gold. This beautiful flower possesses attractive form in its suggestion of ruffling without loss of balance. This is truly an iris to be admired at close range. About 40 inches tall, perfectly branched, and it flowers over a very long season. The individual blooms are of very large size and hold up splendidly in any weather. Each $3.50.

ARCTIC

GREAT LAKES

A new CLEAR BLUE self. A broad spreading regal type of flower, with handsome foliage and finely branched four foot stalks. The color is like the reflection of an azure sky in crystal waters. Each $2.00.

PRAIRIE SUNSET

All that can be said of this gorgeous iris is true, but it has to be seen to be fully appreciated. The blendings of peach, apricot, rose, copper and gold are so well done that it is hard to describe it and do it justice. A fine big flower that will simply amaze you the first time you see it. Winner of the Dykes Medal in 1943. Each $4.50.

Beautiful ELMOHR

The exciting new iris that created such a stir in the iris world last year. The color is a rich red-violet. The stems are at least three feet tall with excellent branching and a great number of huge blooms. It ranked in seventh place in the judging of the American Iris Society last year and is headed for top position as soon as enough plants become available for general distribution throughout the country. Our supply of plants is naturally limited this year, so order early to be sure we can supply you.

SABLE

Another of the famous violet iris. This flower is a uniform shade of deepest blue-black violet with blue beard, and has every virtue that a good iris should have—large size tall stalks, heavy substance and a wonderfully wondrous sheen. Winner of numerous awards. A true blue-blood of the iris world. Each $3.00.

FORTUNE

ELMOHR

FORTUNE

Solid and uniform old gold, a flower of startling size and of broadly spreading form. The color is not dull, but very much alive, due to a peculiar overlay of "rusty red" which seems to come from nowhere but is apparent in all parts of the flower. Of medium height, the gigantic blooms are unusual for their size and beauty. A fine keeper in the garden. Each $3.50.

HEMEROCALLIS — Day Lilies

Daylilies represent one of the horticultural triumphs of recent years and today are among our most important perennials, assuring an unfailing supply of lily-like flowers from early summer till fall. Besides having charm of color, foliage and habit of growth, this plant is without a pest, requiring a minimum amount of care.

Plant them in groups of 3 or more toward the middle of the large border; in rockeries; near fishponds, etc. Use only in an informal manner, because of their loose habit of growth. Plant in partial shade in warm climates; full sun or semi-shade otherwise. Pick off faded buds for best effect.

CINNABAR

Solid brownish red, with yellow center. The outer half of the petals are sprinkled with fulvous red, giving a decided brown-red effect. A very abundant bloomer that increases rapidly. Each 60c, 3 for $1.50.

CRESSIDA

Giant star-shaped flowers of rich golden yellow, often measuring six inches across. One of the first to bloom, it will give you lots of color before other varieties come into flower. This variety makes lots of foliage, but flowers are carried high above the leaves on strong wiry stems. Each 60c, 3 for $1.50.

DAUNTLESS

Pale yellow with greenish throat, with delicate fulvous touch in the center of each petal. Flowers of lily form are large and have lots of substance. A very fine variety. Each 85c, 3 for $2.00.

GEORGE YELD

One of the largest of all. The huge flowers of a blend of buff, apricot, orange and terra-cotta, with a yellow line running down the center of each petal, are borne on 4-foot stems. It is a late bloomer, and a very fast increaser. Each $1.00, 3 for $2.50.

J. A. CRAWFORD

Bright yellow with apricot tints. A very vigorous grower with lush foliage that should be given lots of room in the garden. Flowers are large, with broad petals. Midseason. Each 60c, 3 for $1.50.

MIKADO

A bi-color; bright orange with each petal blotched mahogany-red. This is an unusual variety because of its color, and it is just about the longest flowering of all, having a second crop of flowers in late fall. Increases very rapidly. Each 65c, 3 for $1.75.

MODESTY

Pale yellow self, with raised midribs on reflexed petals that have a waxy appearance. Affords a very marked contrast when planted in with other varieties. Very fine. Each 85c, 3 for $2.00.

WAU-BUN

Light cadmium yellow, faintly sprinkled with fulvous red, having petals that are slightly TWISTED AND CURVED. A rich, glorious flower that actually glistens with a golden sheen. One of the very finest of all Hemerocalis. Each $1.25, 3 for $3.00.
